Gilger site recap, San Saba County

The Gilger fieldwork has ended at the landowner's request and the excavation area refilled. During the last two years, LUAS excavated 40 square meters of the site.

Above, Large hearth discovered by Buddy Whitley in cutbank 14 feet below the terrace top during the last day of excavation. It had apparently been exposed back in July during floods.
